Oliver's Answer Not the Language of Statemanship

"Liar."

Not the language of a statesman, the phraseology of a calm and deliberate representative, nor even the logic which the public has the right to expect from a minister of the crown; but nevertheless the last word—and the only—from Hon. Frank Oliver, minister of the interior, in reply to the allegation that he had intrigued and had lent the services of his personal organ, the Bulletin, to an intrigue to overthrow a Liberal government.

If Mr. Oliver is satisfied with this one word as his only answer, he, of course, has the right to let it go at that, but his constituents are not bound to accept it as satisfactory explanation of his course, nor even as an explanation at all.

Mr. Oliver's answer, while more the language of a logger in a bar-room brawl than what one might have expected from a minister of the crown facing the footlights in full view of his constituents, is still not without a certain order of astuteness.

Mr. Oliver certainly could not hope, with the events of the recent provincial embargo so fresh in the minds of his constituents, to persuade anyone that the attacks of the Bulletin upon the provincial government were not of a piece with his actions at Ottawa, and he could scarcely hope to convince his hearers that it was not as a result of the arrangements which he made that Edmonton lost a railway to the north country and that the C. N. R., through their Battleford line, were permitted to quietly annex an empire which should rightfully have been brought within the sphere of influence of the city of Edmonton.

With no hope of carrying off such an argument, the minister of the interior showed a certain cunning in resorting to the word "liar." Its use precipitated the pandemonium in which his meeting came to a close, and in which he could not have made himself heard even had he had ready an explanation of his course on the railway question at Ottawa and in Edmonton.

But after all, "liar" does not answer the paramount question. When Mr. Oliver comes to Edmonton and seeks under the guise of reciprocity to get through a resolution endorsing his course of action, he resorts to tactics which are devious, to say the least, and which are intended to side-step the question of the motives which led him to make the arrangements which cut off Edmonton's sphere of influence at Athabasca Landing and which gave the north country to a town three hundred miles away in another province altogether. Mr. Oliver has yet to answer the paramount question.

Not an Executor But a Monitor For the Electors

The Bulletin spreads itself all over the front page to say that now is the time for peace and harmony within the Liberal party, and it promptly proceeds to read out of the party all who fail to agree with its strange style of liberalism and who do not endorse the actions of the minister of the interior.

Before the Bulletin has a right to do this, however, it should establish the clear title which it presumes to have upon the liberal party.

The Bulletin undertakes to spread the idea that a meeting of the executive is a matter of no consequence as compared with the convenience of the member whom the electors constituting the party which that executive represents has elected.

The Bulletin apparently does not see that it is not a case where the party and the machinery of the party belongs to Frank Oliver, the elected representative, but a case where the elected representative should belong to the electors who put him where he is.

When Frank Oliver was elected representative for the city of Edmonton he did not thereby become political executor for the whole body of electors of the city of Edmonton. On the contrary, he became—or should have become—the political monitor whose duty it was to carry to Ottawa the aggregate opinion of the people of his constituency.

The party which placed Frank Oliver at Ottawa might have the right to read him out of the party if the consensus of opinion was so inclined, but Frank Oliver, through his Edmonton Bulletin, has no more right to read out of the party any of those members who do not like his ways than he has to ask King George for his resignation.

City Has Run All The Risk it Can Afford With Ensor

The scene presented at the public meeting last night when Chief Ensor grabbed an inoffensive citizen and ejected him forcibly from the hall, in spite of the protests of the chairman, the speaker and practically the entire audience, proves again that Chief Ensor is not a man in whom the peace of the city of Edmonton is safe.

It was fortunate for the chief last night when the audience demanded that the inoffending victim of the chief's stupidity be brought back, the man was there to come back, and Dr. Clark, by his good-natured handling of the case did much to placate the crowd. But it is from just such uncalculated for officiousness and unwarranted violence on the part of fool policemen like Ensor that riots are made.

Every incident in which Ensor shows up indicates that he is not the calibre of man qualified to deal with civilized people and that he is not safe in a situation calling for plain, ordinary common sense. The city has run about all the risks with Ensor that it can afford to run. There are men who could fill his place without making of the police department a laughing stock and a menace.

JUST PARAGRAPHS

Free trade to the north as well as to the south is what the people of Edmonton really demand.

Chief Ensor's idea is to keep order even if he has to precipitate a riot in the attempt.

When a minister of the crown begins to have the aisles lined with policemen and the back of the hall crowded with red coats while official office-holders make a noise like endorsing a resolution, then there must be something affecting the unanimity of the occasion.

A Beautiful and Scholarly Presentation

The beautiful and scholarly presentation of the free trade theory by Dr. Clark at the public meeting last night was one of the best things that has ever been heard in the city of Edmonton, and was so far ahead of the usual line which is given the public of western cities as political economy that the member from Red Deer comes as a pleasure and a refreshment.

Dr. Clark is a free trader who understands his fundamentals and who knows how to express his ideas. There are all too few of such men in public life in the west. The way is undoubtedly open for the member from Red Deer.

"THIS IS MY BIRTHDAY"
John A. Mead.
John A. Mead, Governor of Vermont, was born in Fairhaven, Vt., April 20, 1841, and in early childhood became an orphan. As a youth he worked at odd jobs and saved money enough to enable him to enter Franklin Academy. Later he entered Middlebury College and was graduated in 1864. In 1868 he graduated from the Cornell Medical College and for three years following was a physician at the Brooklyn City Hospital. In 1870 Gov. Mead resigned his position with the hospital and returned to Rutland, where he continued the practice of medicine. Later he embarked in business as a scale manufacturer in Rutland and in the course of years accumulated a large fortune. His public career dates from 1892, in which year he was elected a member of the Vermont senate. Four years later he returned to the legislature as a representative and in 1908 he was elected lieutenant governor of Vermont on the Republican ticket. Last year he was the choice of his party for governor of the State and was elected for the term ending in October of next year.

THE NECESSITY FOR PLAY
Some parents either carelessly or deliberately shut their eyes to certain needs of their children. Whether carelessly or deliberately, the result is equally bad. They have smothered their children by filling their lives with rich food, or piling money and costly clothes upon their backs; and as for their spiritual welfare, it has been sufficient to chase them off to Sunday school, carefully avoiding that place of improvement themselves. They do not seem to realize that play is as necessary to children as either food, clothing or religious instruction. Play is absolutely necessary to healthy growth, and a lack of it is always painfully evident in producing the money or morbid person. You can't use the word "child" for that suggestion (or should suggest) the thought of frolic, quite as the word "puppy".
A man goes out to visit his kennel every morning. One morning a certain little puppy doesn't greet him in its usual way, doesn't literally tumble over itself to get to its master, but hangs back in moody fashion refusing to be coaxed to play in spite of repeated bribes. What does the man do? Does he whip the small animal for being sulky? He knows the dog can't be well, must be "off his feed," or something, so he calls the dog-dog. This expert says the puppy is kept shut up too close. He wants more air and a bigger place to run about in. Then he will race around without any urging.
Now if the man paid as much attention to the needs of his children as to the canines, he would not be long in calling the baby-dog, who would tell him at a glance that all in the world the child needed was more fresh air, a chance to play, and some nice big place to play in.
A very important point in connection with the play of children is that big people should play with them whenever possible, the small person is always tremendously pleased by this apparent condescension on the part of the elders.
Parent say they haven't time—the same old excuse. But fathers wouldn't get so stale if they should cut out an hour at each end of the business day in order to have a romp with the children; nor would mothers feel so fagged over their household if they should drop everything for an hour in the morning and another in the afternoon to slip out of doors for a game. Supposing the mother should leave a speck or two of dust on the piano, what would that matter fifty years from now? But it will matter fifty years from now whether she has left a legacy of health, or weakness to her sons and daughters who should by that time be splendid men and women.
Of course there is the husband to consider, that husband who comes home cross and complaining because his dinner isn't ready "right on the dot," even though his arrival may vary an hour each day. He thinks this plan of the wife of taking her "house hold" a waste of valuable time. But this only applies to the few—and even these type can be educated—for there are hundreds of men right here in Alberta who already know the value of play and are doing all in their power to help along every movement towards this end.

Chief of these is the public playground, and playgrounds are a necessity in every city and town in Alberta; and not only the bare playground, but suitable equipment and also a supervisor for every ground, to direct intelligently the child's play.

GOVERNMENT AT WASHINGTON TILLS MEXICO NOT TO REPEAT KILLING NEAR BORDER LINE

Washington, April 20.—Through the State department, the Mexican government was told yesterday that it is requested to refrain from repeating the killing of Americans near the border line. The Mexican government is requested to refrain from repeating the killing of Americans near the border line. The Mexican government is requested to refrain from repeating the killing of Americans near the border line.

Acua Prieta, via Douglas, Ariz., April 18.—Following a night of desultory firing, great excitement prevailed on both sides of the border. The federal and rebel forces early yesterday. Opposing forces are within a few hundred yards of each other and it is expected that resumption of fighting will be carried almost to the streets of this city and that not only will it prove more severe than Sunday, but that danger to citizens of Douglas will be greater. Six hundred irregulars from the army are now in Acua Prieta, while just outside the city are 1500 federalists and it is claimed by the rebels that the Juan Cabal and Antonio Garcia forces, numbering 1200, are near by. Unusual precaution has been taken by the authorities in Douglas as a result of correspondence that passed between President Taft and Governor Sloan yesterday. In all probability the so-called danger zone will be greatly expanded from the border and the citizens are urged to remain in places of safety while the fight is on. From the nature of things it is believed that the unexpected developments will lead to more decisive fighting than that of Sunday.

FAILS IN EFFORT TO END OWN LIFE

Nelson, B. G., April 20.—Finding that fashions his legs and thus bleeding to death was not the most painless method of committing suicide, F. H. Taylor, a miner from Phoenix, attempted to sever an artery in each wrist, and this resort failing, persevered in his attempt to take his own life by slashing his throat with a razor from case to case. Besides all his self-inflicted wounds, however, the life of which he seemed to be fast losing, and which was found, bleeding profusely and weakened by loss of blood, by the city police. Taylor came to Nelson from Phoenix, a native of England, where his wife and family reside. He was previously penniless when taken up by the police and his strange circumstances probably brought on a despondency, the effect of which was an uncontrollable desire to end his life. He was taken into the Kootenay lake hospital, where his thought he was recovering.

Mr. Russell Wallace, the eminent scientist, who worked out the theory of natural selection at the same time as, but quite independently of, Charles Darwin, relates with gusto an experience he once had when looking for a ghost in a country churchyard. His companion was the sexton, who claimed to have seen the apparition, so Dr. Wallace asked him if he had any idea, whose ghost it was. "I can't tell you, sir," was the reply, "but over there lies a man who had three wives. On the stone of the first the inscription reads, 'My Wife, on that morning the grave of the second it runs, 'My Dear Wife,' while the third wife is called 'My Beloved Wife.' I should say that the ghost is that of the first wife."

PARTY NEGROES ARRIVE IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

ADVANCE GUARD OF BLACKS FROM OKLAHOMA HELD AT BORDER PENDING INVESTIGATION BY IMMIGRATION AUTHORITIES.

New Westminster, April 20.—Detained at White Rock immigration office for over twenty-four hours and then refused admittance into Canada was the first of a party of thirty negro immigrants who landed at the boundary. The offer for deportation is not permanent, and if the party can show that they are free from contagious disease they will probably be admitted. The party includes Guthrie, Logan, Oklahoma, and according to their leader are the advance guard of a large number of the colored race, who will trek north during the coming summer. Peter Jackson, the leader, states that the party is composed of respectable and the racial feeling so strong that they have decided to leave, and report of this advance party will probably mean an influx of blacks into this country, already overrun with nations of all colors and creeds. The government officers are at a quandary as to what course to pursue. At present there is no open objection to the colored race, the large influx would certainly cause some trouble. Financially the party is well fixed. They have been in the south country and are well able to take care of themselves for a time. The only objection to their admission is the medical health officer. According to the leader this was anticipated, and only because they were allowed to accompany the first party. They have no definite plan in view for settlement, but will probably take up land if admitted in a place at a figure which they can raise. The party traveled in a special car and received a rate from Outfitter to Vancouver. As there are only members of six families in the party it is probable that if a few are refused admittance the whole party would not enter. Whether they would travel back to the Southern States or settle in Oregon or Washington State could not be learned.

SENATORS ARE WAITING TO KILL RECIPROCITY

EVERYTHING INDICATES MEASURE WILL HAVE A TORTUOUS COURSE IN THE UPPER HOUSE—SOME DEMOCRATS OPPOSED.

A dispatch from Washington, says: That the Canadian reciprocity agreement is going to have hard sledding in the Senate is the word that comes out of the capital from those who have been looking carefully into the Senate situation. It is not too much to say that the Canadian reciprocity agreement stands in a real show of being defeated. The view is at variance with the one commonly accepted. But there are a number of complications in the situation which do not look well for the enactment of legislation favorable to the agreement. Briefly, this is the situation: The Senate recedes from the Senate and the reciprocity. For the most part, they are high tariff men. They look on the agreement with Canada as the entrance wedge to the reduction of tariff duties all along the line. They fear that if the protection of farm products is once removed, as it will be if the agreement is passed, it will be the ruin of the farmer.

RUMOR STARVING INDIANS IS DENIED

Ottawa, April 20.—A categorical denial of the rumors which have been in circulation, to the effect that starving Indians on the Hudson Bay posts have been hoarding supplies cached by the government, was issued by Comptroller White, of the R. N. W. M. P. yesterday. The comptroller denies that the government has no supplies cached at the various points between Churchill and Lake Winnipeg, nor have they received any remittances of the intentions of the Indian, to attack Hudson Bay posts of the mounted police posts. He states that the Indians and half breeds are working in harmony with the authorities.

After suffering a roaring toothache for fourteen days, Tommy consented to visit the dentist. "But he'll kill me," asserted the nervous youngster, on the verge of tears. "I know he'll kill me." But it was a case of choosing between two evils and Tommy went to the dentist's. He went with his nurse, and when he returned, he greeted his mother beamingly. "Well, dead!" bantered mamma. "No," answered Tommy, "I was just before the dentist killed me the tooth came out."

LORIMER'S TRAIL WARMS UP AS WITNESSES TELL STORY OF ALLEGED BOODLE DEAL

BOAST OF LUMBERMAN EDWARD HINES—TILDEN BALKS ON BANK BOOK—INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE BOUND TO HAVE STATEMENT.

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—Two important developments occurred in the hearing of the State Senate committee which is investigating the election of William Lorimer to the United States Senate. The first was the disclosure by the attorneys and investigators of the committee of an alleged campaign to discredit Edward Hines, Chicago lumberman, who is charged with having collected a large fund to elect Lorimer. Hines testified two weeks ago that he had no knowledge of such a fund.

The second development was a general comment was the practical refusal of Edward Tilden, president of the National Voucher company, and banker, to produce before the committee his accounts in the various banks through which he does business.

Mr. Tilden's attitude on the witness stand resulted in the issuance of a second subpoena by the committee. This subpoena was served upon Mr. Tilden as he stepped from the witness chair in the supreme court building late this afternoon. The subpoena commands Mr. Tilden to produce before the committee on Thursday the records of his various bank accounts in the year 1909.

Refusal to do so, Mr. Tilden was given to understand by Attorney Healy of the committee, will result in an order of contempt being issued by the committee against him. One witness and three affidavits were used before the committee to-day in renewed efforts to break down the denial of Edward Hines. It is understood that Attorney Healy has a dozen more witnesses at his command to be used for the same purpose. It is said to be the plan to present two or three of these witnesses in each succeeding session of the committee.

When Mr. Hines' testimony has been contradicted by a dozen or more men it is said that the Chicago lumberman will be recalled to the witness stand, and cross-examined by the individual story disclosed before the committee.

Tells of Hines' Boast. Attorney Healy considers that the testimony given a week ago by Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company, yesterday corroborated to a considerable degree by Herman H. Heller of Chicago, president of the Herman H. Heller Lumber company. Although Mr. Heller stated that Mr. Hines had nothing to do with the election of Lorimer, Mr. Hines was quoted as making a personal achievement in "getting Lorimer over."

Further Mr. Heller said he met Mr. Hines in the Union League club, the same club in which Mr. Funk testified that he met Hines when the alleged proposal to contribute $10,000 to the Lorimer election fund was made to Mr. Funk.

"I was at a meeting," said Mr. Heller, "occurred by accident at the clear stand at the club."

"I stopped in the Union League club on the day of Senator Lorimer's election," said Mr. Heller. "I was leaving Chicago for a trip to Toronto. As I was in my suit, I saw a man on my shoulder; I looked around and met Mr. Hines."

"Mr. Hines was apparently elated and happy. He said, 'I have just had a telephone call from Springfield and I have elected our next senator.' Hines was emphatic in his remarks that he personally had effected the election of Mr. Lorimer."

"I was not much interested in the senatorial fight and with a view of changing the subject I brought up the subject of the tariff."

"Mr. Hines said that he had been having a great time in Washington, and that he (Hines) had beaten President Taft on the tariff."

Mr. Heller declared under cross-examination that Mr. Hines had said nothing to him regarding money or the use of improper methods in the election of Lorimer.

"I simply took Mr. Hines' action on the day that I met him in the Union League club as an outburst of personal vanity or egotism. He was bragging, more or less, about the election of Mr. Lorimer," said Mr. Heller.

N. C. Galt, special investigator for the Senate bribery committee, followed Mr. Heller on the witness stand. Mr. Galt related his experiences on a recent trip to Marquette, Mich. He told of seeing and talking with Frank J. Russell, Robert C. Lowe, F. D. Moser, Bush Culver and Shelby B. Jones.

Heard Hines' Boast. Galt said that he had secured affidavits from the first three of these live men. The investigators stated that these men had met Hines in the Marquette hotel in the summer of 1909 and that Hines had boasted of "putting over" William Lorimer as federal senator from Illinois.

Mr. Jones refused to make an affidavit, said Mr. Galt, "but he told substantially the same story as the other men. According to this story, Hines, while drinking with these Marquette men, declared that he had influenced the election of Lorimer and had received positively a large sum of money to effect his election."

Attorney Healy then read the affidavit by Frank J. Russell. This affidavit stated that Hines had declared that "we put Lorimer over, and it cost us a lot of money, but he is worth well all of it to us."

The affidavit further stated that this conversation resulted in a discussion of the tariff on lumber.

VAGRANT TURNS OUT TO BE RICH MANUFACTURER

Millionaire New Yorker Runs Out of Money and Arrested in Brussels—Serves Twenty Days

London, April 20.—The local papers publish a story concerning Ralph Brandreth of New York and August Mathias, the latter being described as the New Yorker's secretary, in which it is affirmed that through the intervention of the minister of justice the two men have been released from prison after serving only twenty days of a two years' sentence.

Brandreth and Mathias were arrested March 5, charged with having swindled the proprietor of a hotel, and were sentenced to imprisonment as vagabonds. An investigation conducted by the minister of justice convinced him that Brandreth was an American millionaire.

Mrs. Revalod, counsel for Mr. Brandreth, said his client was senior partner in a stock manufacturing company of New York. He explained that Mr. Brandreth had found himself temporarily without money and was unable to pay his hotel bill. The hotel proprietor made him leave. The hotel keeper then denounced him to the police and charged that he had borrowed money under false pretences and in spite of protests the two men were sentenced to two years' imprisonment as vagabonds.

Meanwhile the minister of justice cabled to New York verified Brandreth's identity and then ordered the men released with apologies.

Willie (whose father is building conservatory): "Papa, if I set this plant would an orange-tree grow up from it?"

Papa: "Of course, my boy, and oranges would grow up on it."

Willie: "That's very wonderful, isn't it, papa, 'cause this is a lemon tree!"

"Excuse Me" is making a great hit in New York, where it is declared the funniest farce of the season.

BOURGIES DROWNED IN RED DEER RIVER

London, April 20.—Yesterday's foot-bridge, caused by the collapse of an iron beam on the Red Deer river, Philip Bourgeois was drowned while attempting to ford the stream near the G. T. B., seven miles south of here Monday. Bourgeois, Joseph McNamara and James Hobbs, were engaged in taking a string of horses across the ford and had almost reached midstream when the iron beam gave way. The horses leaped across with frenzy, and in their struggles in the water the three men were shaken into the torrent. McNamara and Hobbs saved themselves by clinging to the backs of two of the animals, but Bourgeois was carried far down stream and drowned.

The two brothers had been apart for years, but Jack had contrived to return from Australia in time for the family re-union at Christmas.

After the dinner, which was of such a kind as to make the wanderer realize that there is indeed "no place like home," Jack, drew his brother aside, and over a big cigar produced a photograph, and said, somewhat sheepishly: "You see that guy? You see that little fellow in the front row? Well, it's on her account that I've come home. Man, she's perfect. Her face has been before me in all my wanderings, and I determine that I would make a fortune and then come home and lay it at her feet. Yes, I know it was an odd fancy to take, but there—I'm like that. And now that I've made the money I've come to you to help me find her."

"My dear old fellow," said Fred, kindly, "don't take it to heart, but she's—"

"It's not that. But that is a photograph of young Tom Mason. He's a member of our amateur dramatic club, and when that was taken he was filling a gap by taking a girl's part."

DESORONTO, ONT.

Says—"Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the Best Cough Syrup She Ever Used."

She writes—"Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the best cough syrup I ever used. My baby had a very bad cold, I was using Dr. R. medicine but that didn't seem to help the awful cough she had until I got a bottle of this great syrup. I have it in the house at the present time for the children and I think I couldn't get along if I didn't have it. I wish to thank you for all the good it has been to my family."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree, which combined with Wild Cherry bark and other potent remedies makes it one of the greatest known preparations for Coughs, Colds and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

It is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pence the trade mark; price 25 cents at all dealers.

Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Queen of Roumania, who celebrated her birthday recently, has just had one of our youngest musicians playing before her—Max Dareskoff.

Max is not very old, but he has already had a career that many less gifted children might envy.

Some time ago a friend offered the young pianist a peppermint put into his mouth. Unfortunately, the peppermint was particularly hot and strong. After Max had sucked at it for some time, with valiant efforts, he took it out of his mouth and laid it on the window-sill.

"Why are you putting it there?" his friend demanded.

"To let it cool," was the reply.
